GRAVE SITUATION

FOOD SHORTAGE MUCH MORE SERIOUS THAN FIRST ESTIMATED

According to the Food Administration the food situation in Europe is far graver than when the preliminary survey of the food supply of the world for this year was made. We have an abundance for ourselves, and it is the firm policy of the Food Administration, by the prevention of exports, to retain for our people an ample supply of every essential foodstuff. The harvests of Europe have proved less than we had contemplated, and the great curtailment of shipping by the submarines during the last few months has further prevented them from access to more remote markets. Beyond the demands of the allies there is a call upon us by the friendly neutrals for food supplies, and if we can not at least in part respond to these neutral calls, starvation on an unparalleled scale must ensue.

Cause of Russia's Trouble

We must no overlook the fact, says the Government, that Russia collapsed not because of the Germans on her borders, but largely because of the failure to organize and feed her own citizens, and, if we are to emerge victorious from this war, we can not risk the collapse of another of our defenders from this same cause. There is no waste of food among any of the allies—there is the most drastic reduction in their consumption; there is actual privation among their women and children; there is starvation in Belgium.

NO PICTURE MACHINE

The Colorado Parent-Teacher Association has long promised the children of that school a picture machine and various enterprises have been fostered to raise the money for it. It was supposed to be in sight, but alas, war has hit prices of picture machines as severely as it has struck other more necessary things and the model selected for the school, which not long ago could have been bought for $108, now costs $121.50. With the screen and other accessories it would require an outlay of $140. In view of the war expenses and the exhortations to thrift which the government is making through all possible avenues, especially to children, the committee having the matter in charge, of which Miss Ida Waite is chairman, did not feel justified in making the purchase and so reported to the Association. The organization promptly approved the recommendation and discharged the committee, with instructions to the teachers to explain the matter to the boys and girls as one of the sacrifices which they are asked to suffer cheerfully as a matter of patriotism.

DEATH OF T. RAUPP

Timouthious Raupp, 1520 Dryden street, passed away March 15th aged 73 years, 1 month and 28 days. Deceased leaves to mourn his departure a devoted daughter, Mrs. R. H. Sexton of Glendale, who has been at his bedside constantly for many weeks. Mr. Raupp was for many years a successful merchant in Saginaw, Mich., coming here about two years ago, hoping to benefit his health. Funeral services were held from the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Company Monday at 2:30 p. m. Interment at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

APPRECIATION

ADJUTANT GENERAL BORREE THANKS MISS IDA WAITE AND HER ASSOCIATES

That the patriotic service rendered by Miss Ida Waite and the corps of teachers who assisted her in preparing index cards of the questionnaires filed with the local exemption board is appreciated, the following letter just received by Miss Waite will show:

State of California
Adjutant General's Office
Sacramento, March 15th, 1918.

Miss Ida Waite,
Principal, Colorado Street School,
Glendale, Cal.

My dear Miss Waite:

By direction of the Governor, William D. Stephens, I convey to you and your associates, the sincere thanks of the State for the excellent work rendered by you in the preparation of the occupational cards of Local Board No. 7. It is indeed refreshing to find such efficient service being rendered by school teachers for the State of California.

Respectfully yours,
J. J. BORREE,
Brigadier General N. G. C.

CONSOLIDATE SCHOOLS

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS OF GLENDALE AND TROPICO NOW ONE DISTRICT

The petition to consolidate the Grammar School Districts of Tropico and Glendale which was recently submitted to County Superintendent of Schools Mark Keppel and by him referred to the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, was considered by them at their Friday session and the necessary legal action was taken to effect the consolidation. The residents of the city are therefore now in one big grammar school district and united under one management.

The school census of Tropico figures up to 300 to 325 pupils, which added to Glendale's school attendance makes a total of about 1750. Glendale has 53 teachers, Tropico 11, making a total teaching force of 64. Upon Richardson D. White, Superintendent of Grammar Schools, will fall increased responsibilities, but he is not weighed down nor groaning over them in spite of the big additions to his many cares which the Junior Red Cross work has imposed upon him and his teaching force.

There has been no friction over the Board of School Trustees. Two from Tropico and two from Glendale tendered their resignations. The resigning members in Tropico were Mrs. Wesley Bullis and Mr. Clyde Carmack. In Glendale Messrs. A. B. Heacock and John Todd surrendered their offices. That left upon the Board Mr. David G. Hibben of the Tropico District and Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale. To fill the vacancy County Superintendent Mark Keppel then appointed John Todd to fill the unexpired short term which terminates May 1st. The resignation of Mr. Todd was made necessary by the fact that his term and the term of office of Mr. Hibben coincided and it was necessary to have some one to fill the unexpired short term. At the school election which will take place March 29th, a trustee to fill the short term will be elected and it is reported that Mr. Todd will be a candidate.

RED CROSS BENEFITS BY PLANT SALE

The plant sale held Friday at the Red Cross Shop, next door to the post office, by officials of the Glendale Garden Society, formed a new attraction and proved quite successful. Although this was the first of the weekly sales of plants and cut flowers, there was a goodly show. Kind friends donated many dozens of the following: columbine (aquilegia), Japanese anemones, perennial red phlox, vitadena (for hanging baskets), Shasta daisies, pink verbena, oxalis, white, mauve, and pink, marigolds, golden glow, white chrysanthemums, red "meteor" cannas, salmon pink canna, Philadelphia ivy, seedum moss, smilax, and potted plants of asparagus plumosus, sprengerii, sword ferns, etc. Exquisite bouquets of sweet violets, freesias and delicate ferns were brought by Mrs. George Peters, Jr., and sold like hot cakes at 10 cents each. Cut daffodils were also sold, and several merchants purchased these golden spring flowers for window decoration. Mr. Jensen of the Palace Grand left a standing order for a bouquet of cut flowers to be supplied every Friday for the box office of the theatre. Similar orders will be much appreciated.

The public generally is invited to inspect the Garden Society's department every Friday and to purchase plants and cut flowers, all of which will be sold at very reasonable prices. Friends are also asked to donate the surplus of their gardens, whether flower or vegetable plants, and to contribute cut flowers liberally. Please deliver the contributions if possible to the Red Cross shop Friday morning. Mrs. Frank Hester will call with her automobile for heavy or cumbersome articles. Phone 394 or 386-W.

ONE HAND MAY WASH ANOTHER

To all chairmen of printing committees of the many societies and clubs in Glendale, allow the publisher of the Evening News to make it known that the Evening News publishing plant is equipped with one of the most up-to-date job-printing plants to be found any where in Southern California, and not only has it the printing plant, but it also has the men who know how to do neat and artistic printing. If the little local daily newspaper is a good medium through which to let the public know of coming events, the printing plant in connection with the little local daily will be a suitable place at which to get your club printing, programs, tickets, etc. One hand may serve to wash another.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday. Westerly winds.

NO REPLY FROM HOLLAND

EVERY OPPORTUNITY GIVEN TO SIGN ALLIED PROPOSAL BEFORE DUTCH SHIPS ARE SEIZED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Delay in receipt of official cable bearing on the Holland-Allied negotiations for taking over Dutch tonnage at noon today will probably hold up the seizure of Dutch vessels until tomorrow, it was officially stated this morning.

While the Shipping Board said the navy would take over the ships at noon, the navy said it was standing by but had no orders to put the naval reserve men on today.

At about the same time the State Department indicated that Holland had not signed the proposed agreement, but had never fully opposed the use of her ships by the Allies during the war. The department claims no reply has been received from Holland.

It appeared that the delay in requisitioning the ships was to allow an opportunity to Holland to make a last minute agreement on the subject.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Special dispatches received here declare that Holland has accepted Allied conditions regarding the employment of Dutch shipping.

PLAN TO DIVIDE RUSSIA

TROTSKY DECLARES GERMANY AND JAPAN HAVE AN UNDERSTANDING AS TO DISPOSAL OF RUSSIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, March 18.—Leon Trotsky, Bolsheviki foreign minister, declared today in an interview that an agreement exists between Germany and Japan to divide Russia on the basis of their mutual interests.

Trotsky further declared that the Allies had made a grave error in assisting Japan's plans for the occupation of Siberia. America would be the first to regret the Allies' policy, he said.

HAGUE WILL NOT SIGN AGREEMENT

INTENTIONS OF UNITED STATES AND HER ALLIES IN SEIZING DUTCH TONNAGE QUESTIONED BY HOLLAND

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

THE HAGUE, March 18.—Holland's answer in regard to the ship situation proposed by the Allies will be that she can not prevent the seizure of her ships but she will not agree with the Allies' proposal.

The statement of the American War Trades Board regarding the necessity for seizing our tonnage is ridiculed here.

As a test of the Allies' intention Dutch merchantment convoyed by warships may be sent to Sweden.

NEW ENGLAND TROOPS WIN DECORATION

DIVISION STATIONED IN CHEMIN DES DAMES SECTOR WINNERS OF TWENTY-FIVE WAR CROSSES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, March 18.—American troops of a New England division stationed in the Chemin des Dames sector have won 25 French war crosses, the censor permitted to be announced today.

BAKER IS ENCOURAGED

SECRETARY OF WAR IS CONVINCED THAT OUR ARMY WILL MEET EVER-INCREASING DEMANDS ABROAD

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WITH SECRETARY BAKER IN FRANCE, March 18.—Secretary Baker's visit to France has been a personal inspiration to every officer and man in the American forces, Gen. Pershing declared.

Secretary Baker summed up his tour of inspection to date by saying that these days had been worth his trip across the Atlantic in information and encouragement to him.

He said: "I have seen enough to convince me that we have an organization which will meet the problem with its increasing volume of demand of coupling up the ports of embarkation in the United States with the ports of debarkation in France. I ceased to be an official while I thrilled as a citizen with pride and satisfaction over the ever-increasing force which we shall bring to the aid of the Allied armies in France.

ARMENIAN-SYRIAN AID

MASS MEETING ARRANGES FOR SYSTEMATIC CANVASS OF CITY FOR FUNDS

The estimated attendance on the mass meeting of all Glendale churches held at the First Methodist church in this city Sunday evening on behalf of the Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund, was about one thousand. The big auditorium was filled and great interest was manifested.

An address was made by Dr. James N. Larsen of New York City, who represents the National Armenian-Syrian Relief Committee, in whose work President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing are taking such an active interest. After the address, monthly pledges were taken and arrangements were made to assist in the campaign to raise thirty millions of dollars, of which eight millions have already been subscribed. A committee of which W. B. Kirk was made chairman, was appointed to make a systematic canvass of the city April 7th, and C. D. Lusby was made treasurer of the local fund. Citizens are asked to bear this date in mind and be prepared with their contributions when the canvassers call.

CHAPTER BA OF P. E. O.

Chapter BA of P. E. O. met for their all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Pearl Guthrie, 523 W. Ninth street, Friday, March 15th. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with acacia blooms. The president, Miss Kate Parker, conducted the business meeting in the morning, after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, with Mrs. Beryl Cross assisting. The program or the afternoon was given by Miss Leta McCoy, who charmingly told of her trip through Yellowstone National Park, where she recently spent the summer. Her descriptions were made vivid by the views which she had collected on her trip, and these proved of great interest to everyone.

DEATH OF PHILIP LAICHINGER

Sunday at midnight, Philip E. Laichinger, who formerly lived at 239 North Jackson street, this city, but who has lately resided at 125 Grand street, Los Angeles, expired of heart trouble after an illness of but a few hours. He was 54 years of age and came to Southern California in 1905 from Detroit, where for twenty-one years he was organist in one of the largest churches of that city. He was a citizen of Glendale for more than four years and made many friends here, especially among musicians. He leaves a wife, Jessie Laichinger, and a son, Russell Laichinger. He was a man of fine spirit and a rare musician. Funeral arrangements, which have not been completed, will be announced later.

RED CROSS BALL

The Red Cross Ball was greatly enjoyed by the eighty or more couples who danced for the good of the cause in the beautiful ball room of the Elks' Club House Saturday evening. In recognition of St. Patrick's Day, green featured the decorations which were massed upon the front stage, palms, ferns, etc., behind which the orchestra was stationed. The returns from tickets and refreshment tables are not all in so the amount to be turned over to the Red Cross Chapter can not be determined at this time, but will be reported later. The committee, which consisted of Mesdames C. F. and F. S. Whitaker, John Robert White, W. H. Boothby, J. Ford, Lillian Dow and Miss Coral Griffith, worked hard to promote this money-making project and is well pleased with the returns.

Mrs. A. M. Beamon was brought from Thornycroft Hospital, where she underwent an operation about two weeks ago, to her home at 245 South Maryland avenue, Saturday afternoon. She is improving, but is still so weak that physicians have ordered quiet and she will not be able to see her friends for a few days.

POSTOFFICE WARNING

VIOLATIONS OF ORDERS REGARDING SOLDIERS' MAIL BRING HEAVY PENALTIES

Office of Second Assistant
Postmaster General,
Washington, March 1, 1918.

Notwithstanding the notices that have been issued from time to time warning the public against sending unmailable articles in packages to members of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, a systematic examination at New York and Chicago discloses that unmailable articles, such as matches, alcohol, explosives, and inflammables, continue to be found in packages even though the packages themselves are marked by postmasters as containing no prohibited articles.

These are serious instances of violations of the regulations, and for the information of senders and postmasters, attention is drawn to the fact that it is a violation of the law to knowingly place in the mails packages containing known to be unmailable, for which violation the Revised Statutes provide a penalty upon conviction of a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment not more than 10 years, or both. See section 472, Postal Laws and Regulations, 1913.

Postmasters, under section 548, are directed to exclude from the mails all unmailable matter, and they are consequently responsible for the admission of unmailable matter when such matter is found in the mails. Besides this, they may be held jointly responsible with the senders of the unmailable matter, should fire or explosion result from the presence of unmailable matter in the mails, whether the fire or explosion occurs in this country or abroad.

In view of the strict accountability to which postmasters will be held hereafter for the admission of unmailable articles in the mails, it is necessary for postmasters to see to it that senders are fully informed as to the articles that are not mailable, and moreover, to examine packages for articles prohibited, which articles, if found, should be returned to the senders, who should be informed of the law, as set forth in section 472, and warned that a violation of the law will be dealt with through the proper legal authorities.

OTTO PRAEGER,
Second Asst. Postmaster General.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. Reid Fulkman of 909 Chestnut street entertained about twenty friends of her daughter, Marion Kent, at a four-course luncheon Saturday in celebration of her thirteenth birthday. Marion was born on the seventeenth, St. Patrick's day, and the emblems of his anniversary featured the decoration of the table, which was exceedingly pretty and perfect in all its appointments. A handsome birthday cake with the appropriate candles was of course a feature of the spread. Following the luncheon the girls spent a pleasant afternoon with games, for which prizes were given, which were also St. Patrick souvenirs. The guest list included Josephine Farnham, Grace Yarbrough, Mary Hertado, Kathleen Parker, Eleanor Widney, Francis Bartlett, Helen Thompson, Gertrude Ewing, Mildred Meeker, Mabel Prindeville, Alice Ewing, Helen Engle, Doris Moyse, Helen Hesse, Ilva Pfeiffer, Shirley Hitchcock, Lucile Thompson, Dorothy McGinnis, Orra Hester, Virginia Butterfield.

GOOD TEMPLARS

ENTERTAINED MEMBERS OF MERRILL LODGE AT FRIDAY'S MEETING

When Glendale Lodge of Good Templars met Friday evening at their headquarters in Odd Fellows Hall, they entertained twenty-five members of Merrill Lodge of Los Angeles who paid an official visit. The business session was very brief and was adjourned to listen to the fine program furnished by the visitors. Instrumental and vocal music and readings all of a high character were given and appreciatively received by the local lodge. Chocolate and wafers were served by the ladies of the home lodge and a number of lively games including a grand march were indulged in before the company dispersed.

Glendale Lodge is planning for a banquet on March 29 at 7:45 at the Jewel City cafe, corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue. Several good speakers and good music are being arranged for. The tickets are 50 cents and are on sale at the cafe now. This is to be a jolly get-together, get-acquainted affair.

TWO MINUTES WITH UNCLE HEN

(By Albert Marple)

Safety Last
Last Sunday afternoon just after tea I went out for a—
Little quiet stroll down the avenue—I was letting my—
Brain take an hour or so off—I had walked not more than—
A block when I saw an automobile with a woman driving—

Coming down the street in a zig-zag fashion—she was—
Going at a pretty good clip I thot for such man-
Euvers but she continued on her way hitting first this—
Curb and then that one until she got to about—

Where I was walking—suddenly she made a graceful queen's—
Cross which resulted in her fetching up against a stal-
Wart telephone pole—she stopped so suddenlike that she—
Went clean thru the windshield—I wish you could have seen—

That car—no it wasn't wrecked it was simply pulver-
Ized the radiator was where the differential belonged—
And a fellow picked up one of the headlights a block—
Down the street while a front spring is still hanging—

To a telephone wire overhead—gee what a smear I don't—
Believe if our friend Henry were to see that pile of gar-
Bage he would recognize a splinter—I picked the woman—
Up and soon she come to she was moaning and praying and—

Hoping she would die—I didn't tell her that I thot—
That would be the best and safest thing for the human—
Race in general but I soothed her as best I could—
While another fellow telephoned for the hurry-up wagon—

Before the wagon arrived I asked her did you get rattled—
Madam—no she said all huffy up I never get rattled at—
Anything the trouble was the pesky thing wouldn't stop—
It seemed to me it stopped all right—well I said why—

Didn't you shut off the gas and she tried to scratch—
My face and said I did you low-down loafer and I said—
That's impossible lady for the engine is still running—
When she heard the motor purring she fainted dead—

Away right there in my arms—fortunately just at that—
Moment the pound wagon arrived—

Goodbye 'till next time

VOTE "YES" WATER BOND ELECTION, TUESDAY, MARCH 19

The purpose of the election is to vote bonds of $55,500 to acquire a municipal water system for the District formerly known as the City of Tropico.

The present system is owned by a private corporation.

If these bonds are voted, the following advantages will be gained:

1. The District will be served with water under the direction of the Glendale Municipal Plant, in common with the balance of the city.

2. Compare the following rates:

What You Pay Now

Minimum 75c 400 feet,
For $1.00 you get 650 feet,
For $1.25 you get 900 feet,
For $1.50 you get 1150 feet,
For $2.00 you get 1650 feet.

What You Will Pay Under Municipal Ownership

Minimum $1.00, 1000 feet.
For $1.00 you will get 1000 feet,
For $1.25 you will get 2250 feet
For $1.50 you will get 3500 feet,
For $2.00 you will get 6000 feet.

The average domestic use per family, excluding lawn and garden irrigation, is about 700 feet per month, or $1.00 per month under either system; therefore, under the Municipal System there will be 300 feet per month available for irrigating at no increase in cost.

There is no doubt, in view of past records, but what there will be a still lower rate in the municipal system in the near future.

3. The rental for the privilege of connecting our fire hydrants to the privately owned system, amounting to $900 per year and which comes out of the pockets of the taxpayers, will be eliminated.

4. The amount of bonds to be voted, $55,500, will acquire a system valued by the State Railroad Commission at over $90,000. The cost of duplicating the system under present high prices, together with water supply and appurtenances, would be over $160,000.

5. No tax levy will be required to finance the system. The income of the Municipal Plant, of which this portion, if voted in, will become an integral part, is sufficient to completely support it.

6. Through increased facilities, it will be possible to increase the pressures in those portions of the District where it is now insufficient.

7. It is cheaper to buy now than later.

8. With Municipal ownership you use your profits to your own advantage instead of paying dividends to outsiders.

Remember the date and place.

Vote "yes" for prosperity and your own water system.

MARY LOU COOLE

A dear little girl who weighed eight and one-half pounds arrived Sunday morning to bless the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Coole, former residents of this city who now have a ranch near Exeter. Mrs. Coole has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Glen Craig of 216 West Tenth street, at whose home the baby was born. She is to be called Mary Lou, after her father and her mother. Mr. Coole is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Coole and he and his wife have a very large circle of friends here.

WAR PHOTOGRAPHERS

Glendale is honorably represented in nearly all departments of war service, and the Photographic Division under the Signal Corps is no exception. G. W. Hewett, known to his friends as "Will Hewett," of 671 Gardena avenue, enlisted before any draft call was made, and in all probability is now at the front doing his part in this work. According to statements authorized by the Signal Corps, plans have been completed for the great enlargement of facilities for training and equipping the aerial photographic force for photographing the German trenches from the skies and keeping up to the last minute the large composite picture of the whole German front. Future facilities will be three times those at present existing and will be in full operation in three weeks.

The three schools now operating at Langley Field, Fort Sill, and Cornell will be consolidated into one large school of aerial photography at Rochester, N. Y., where all the primary training will be done. Special equipment has been provided, with over 100 instructors. The present schools will be used for special and advanced training, particularly for the photographic intelligence officers who will accompany the planes into the air on special occasions.

FOOTHILL CLUB

Mrs. Elliott B. Wyman, 1326 N. Maryland avenue, was hostess to the members of the Foothill club Friday afternoon. Spring blossoms adorned the rooms where the guests were entertained, marigolds and ferns being used in the living room and den and wild gooseberries in the dining room. Red Cross work is being done at each meeting of this club and much was accomplished at Friday's meeting while the young daughter of the hostess, Miss Frances Wyman, entertained the guests with piano selections and a patriotic song. A dainty two-course luncheon was served at the beautifully appointed tables in the dining room.

DEATH OF MRS. TREADWELL

Mary Eliza Treadwell departed this life at her home, 136 Myrtle avenue, Eagle Rock, Friday, March 15th, aged 85 years, 6 days. Deceased leaves to mourn her two daughters, Mrs. Lee W. Chambers and Miss M. Treadwell of Eagle Rock, and a son, H. G. Treadwell of San Francisco, beside a large circle of friends. Mrs. Treadwell has been in ill health for some time, but her conditions was such as to permit her being around the house up to within a few hours of her passing away. The funeral was held Monday at 10:30 a. m. at "The Little Church of the Flowers," Forest Lawn, Jewel City Undertaking Company in charge.

The Chamber of Commerce of Lankershim is considering a proposition to have a "Peach Day" as an advertising proposition, and the matter will be debated at its April meeting.

A QUAINT CITY

"Loches" was the subject of study of the Art and Travel Section of the Thursday Afternoon Club which met at the home of the curator, Mrs. Charles Turck, on Glendale avenue. Mrs. Turck's charming description of this interesting city is published herewith by special request of members of the class who highly prize these mementoes of travel:

Loches

Loches is a city of five thousand inhabitants and is in the Department of the Indre-et-Loire. We had been told that it was one of the most interesting and picturesque towns in central France, that it was full of surprises and that what we saw there would make a deep and lasting impression, but we were not greatly impressed, however, remembering our disappointments of the past when we had so credulously taken the opinions of our fellow travelers as "Gospel truth."

This time we were to find that our informant had been moderate indeed in his praise, for truly there was much of interest to be found in this quaint city with its narrow, winding streets, one of which wends its crooked way up the hillside toward the ruins of the old chateau or castle on its summit, which was a royal residence as late as the 16th century. It was built in the 12th century so solidly that it was thought to be impregnable, surrounded as it was by a complicated system of defensive works, moats, walls, etc. Nevertheless it was taken time after time, being held in turn by John Lackland, Richard Coeur de Lion, Philip Augustus, Robert Turneham, until finally both the town and castle were given to Dreux de Mello, in recognition of services rendered to France by his father, the former Constable of France. In 1240 it was bought by Louis IX, commonly called St. Louis, and henceforth Loches and its castle became crown properties. Two hundred years later the town was burned, but Charles VII rebuilt it and his successor, Louis XI, devoted his time to strengthening the castle, not with a view of keeping his enemies out, however, but in order to keep them from getting out, once he had prevailed upon them, forcibly or otherwise, to enter, and it was he who gave to this chateau its fearful reputation by the horrible deeds of cruelty committed there during his reign, by him or at his instigation, and this great pile of massive walls, square and round towers, in which are to be found the dungeons of the monster Louis XI, remain to this day silent witnesses of the atrocities committed at that time. The large round tower was built to his order, its upper rooms being given to the more favored prisoners and the lowest cell of all, a round dungeon way down below the foundations lighted by a miserable little window, a "meurtriere" or loop hole, was given to those who had greatly displeased this justly despised sovereign. From the roof of this underground prison was suspended the cage of Cardinal Balue, who was at that time spiritual adviser of the king and who designed this cage himself at Louis' request, the king telling him he wished him to perfect something that would prove to be an instrument of exquisite torture, as he, the king, wished to punish a disloyal subject. Cardinal Balue gave much time and thought to fulfilling this commission to the king's liking, and finally decided upon a large cage of iron, too small to allow the occupant either to stand up or lie down, and at its completion went to Louis and told him that he had finished his work. His sovereign expressed approval and requested Balue, of whose treason he had recently become aware, "to step in and show him just how it worked," and Balue (who had sold the state secrets to the Duke of Burgundy but thought he had cleverly covered all traces of his crime) unsuspectingly did as the king asked. Immediately the door of the cage was closed and locked and for eleven years he was imprisoned there, finally being liberated by Louis through the intercession of Pope Sixtus IV. He went to Rome and on the death of Sixtus became bishop of Orleans and of Praenest. This mode of punishment so appealed to the cruel instincts of this monarch that he had forges established in the palace and watched with grim pleasure the making of many more of these cages.

The cells of the round tower are however less terrible than those that are under the foundations of the fifteenth century building known as the "Martelet." Here we find cell below cell, cut out of the solid rock, the upper ones faced with masonry fourteen feet thick and provided with more "loop holes" for windows, the lower ones as dark and silent as a tomb. We descend a narrow, winding staircase of more than thirty steps and are shown the cell where was kept in solitude Ludovic Sforza, once Duke of Milan, for nine long years, and the crude paintings, designs and inscriptions on the walls show us how this wretchedly unhappy man strove to relieve the monotony, not only of the days and months but of the years of his confinement. On the wall opposite the one narrow window he had carved a crude sundial, by means of which, I presume, he hoped to keep track of time. He had scratched his portrait on one of the side walls with the lines in large letters, "Be not too wise." There are many verses to be found there as well, showing the varying moods of this gifted man. After nine years he was transferred to an upper cell where his quarters were more cheerful, and he died of joy upon being told abruptly that he was to be released.

But Sforza's reflections are by no means the only ones you can read on these prison walls, for there is not one that does not tell its story of anger, sorrow or despair, the latest one being dated 1785 and scratched by a revolutionary who prophesied the early destruction of the castle walls, the breaking of prison chains and the abolition of the tortures invented by kings too weak to hold back a people who wish their liberty. How well this prophesy was fulfilled, students of French history know, but before it was realized, how many men of note were forced to respond to the ironical invitation written on the walls on the entrance to the prison, which reads, "Enter gentlemen, guests of the king, your master."

The Collegiate Church of St. Ours dates from the tenth century. There is on the porch a round altar made of one block of stone, ornamented with carved figures of warriors, which is now used as a holy-water basin. The remains of Agnes Sorel, the sweetheart of Charles VII, formerly lay in this church, but the Chapter, shocked at the idea of her ashes being in so sacred a place, had them removed with the tomb to the nave and later to one of the towers of the Royal Chateau, where more than twenty years of her life had been happily passed.

Her tomb is a beautiful work of art. It is black marble on which is a reclining statue of herself, with folded hands, in white marble, with a little kneeling angel on either side of her head and the inevitable sheep at her feet.

In the chateau there is to be found the really beautiful Oratory of Anne of Brittany ornamented with the erminae and cordeliers. In the grounds are enormous chestnut trees planted by one of the early monarchs, and one cannot but wish that the memory of their deeds might be as beautiful as these living monuments that they have left us.

Personals

William Tatum, who owns a home on West Tenth street, has leased it and moved with his family last Saturday to San Bernardino, where he expects to be employed for some time.

The Literary Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will meet at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 101 S. Brand boulevard, Tuesday afternoon. A program of unusual interest is promised.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Glendale Presbyterian Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy D. King of 140 South Jackson street, Tuesday afternoon, instead of in the church parlors.

Dr. P. O. Lucas, leader of the choir of the Tropico Methodist Church, announces that next Sunday, which will be Palm Sunday, the choir will give an Easter Cantata and will be assisted by the choir of the Normandy Avenue Church of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Jessica Hazzard will again lecture at the City Hall Tuesday morning from ten to twelve o'clock on the subject of substitute cereals. This lecture is entirely free and will be accompanied by demonstrations. Women of Glendale are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity to learn how to use the new flours.

The annual meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of the First Baptist church was held at the church Thursday, March 14. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. V. H. Cowsert, Vice-President, Mrs. J. L. Gray, Secretary, Mrs. W. F. Sprowls, Treasurer, Mrs. F. I. Marsh, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Barton of this city entertained Misses Ethel Land and Lois Hatch, teachers in the Doran street school, with an auto ride to San Pedro and Point Firmin Sunday. They report that it was a wonderful ride, that the hills around Point Firmin were simply glorious and that there was an immense number of autos around the soldier's quarters.

Mrs. Joseph Griffin of Acacia avenue, who is chairman for Red Cross Food Sales in the district extending from Palmer to Ninth street and Central to the eastern city limit, announces that a sale will be held on election day, April 8th, in the store which will be next door to the polling place at Brand and Park avenue and that a hot luncheon will be served in connection with the sale.

Mrs. Helen I. McLeish, Director of the Bureau of Chapter Production, has issued a circular letter of which the Glendale Chapter has received a copy to the effect that the production of certain articles on the list of hospital requirements will be discontinued until further orders. The list includes the following articles: hot water bottle covers, ice bag covers, comfort pillows, heel rings, operating stockings, knitted wash cloths, table napkins, handkerchiefs.

Glendale is expected to send a large delegation to the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations which will be held March 26th from ten to four in the Fraternal Brotherhood Building, 845 South Figueroa street, Los Angeles. Few cities of Southern California have as many and thriving Parent-Teacher Associations as Glendale and since it has furnished the president for the state organization in Dr. Jessie Russell, it should ably support her at this meeting.

The Epworth League Sub-District Rally at the Tropico Methodist church Friday evening, in which five churches participated, viz.: First Methodist of Glendale, West Glendale M. E. Church, Eagle Rock, Burbank and Tropico Methodist churches, was well attended and a most interesting meeting. The program was prepared and presented by the officers of the four departments. Mr. Jennings, District President, conducted the meeting, and refreshments were served at the close of the program.

Mrs. Mary A. Miller of 1465 West First street was very much interested in an article recently published in her old home paper, the Clermont, Iowa, Enterprise, stating how a friend of her family, S. E. Wickham, in looking through some of his father's effects had found an old newspaper, the Ulster County Gazette, published at Kingston, New York, and dated January 4, 1800. The paper was in excellent condition and had the appearance of never having been removed from the wrapper. The column rules on the two inside pages are "turned" in mourning for the death of President Washington, an account of which is given. As is the case today, the entire first page is filled with war news and judging from the contents the whole of Europe must have been at war at that time. Congress was in session at the time and a part of President Adams' message is published.

THE WOMAN AND THE SOLDIER

An interesting vindication of woman's intuition has occurred at the headquarters of the local Exemption Board. Mrs. Jackson, chief clerk, who understands the business of the Board as well as do the members thereof, is frequently made the confidant of the hopes and fears of registrants who visit the rooms in the absence of Chairman Lanterman. One such visitor was Kastantinas Lenkawskis, a young Russian who has been residing in this city at 428 Maryland avenue. He applied for special induction into the service as chauffeur, to be sent to Kelly Field, and, though he spoke brokenly, made such a favorable impression upon Mrs. Jackson as an intelligent, worthy young defender of democracy that her heart warmed to him and she did all she could to pave the way for the realization of his desires. Imagine her surprise, therefore, when the representatives of Board No. 6 who superintended the entraining of the men declared he had failed to show up, and another recruit would have to be secured to fill up the quota. Mr. Lanterman accepted the report with the philosophical calm of a man who has seen the world and knows human weakness, but Mrs. Jackson refused to consider any such verdict. "I am just as confident that man was on the train as I am confident that I sit here. There was simply some mistake," she declared, "and presently a message will come that he has been found by the officers in charge of the party." But no message came and the police were notified to look up Lenkawskis. Mrs. Jackson's faith was still triumphant, though Chairman Lanterman smiled with tolerant amusement at her credulity, and then Mrs. R. C. Newton and Mrs. W. R. Phelon of this city appeared to make affidavit that they had known the boy and because he was a foreigner and friendless they had gone to the train to give him a kind send-off, that they had seen him board the car and had waved him a goodbye after the train started. Mrs. Jackson then turned the tables and smiled indulgently upon Mr. Lanterman's incredulity, and when a letter arrived from Lenkawskis from Kelly Field, the Chairman acknowledged with as much meekness as would be possible to a man of his type, that sometimes women do know things when the evidence is all opposed to their verdicts.

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite entertained Saturday evening at a St. Patrick's party at their attractive home, 707 South Central avenue. The decorations, of course, were in green and white. The game of the evening was 500. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Birne, Mr. and Mrs. Meek, Mr. and Mrs. John Roman, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kling, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Halstead, Mrs. Worley, Mrs. Grosee of Cincinnati, Mr. Freddie Lewis of Boston and Mr. B. R. Kozloreski of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Kling won first prize and Mrs. Birne and Mr. Lewis were awarded the consolation. The hostess served a dainty collation.

DREAMOGRAMS

(By Albert Marple)

The Dream

(Nary a Chance)

For an hour I have been standing
On one of the principal boule-
Vards running between my home
And the seashore—during that
Time a seemingly endless stream
Of automobiles and motorcycles

Has being going by—they are all
Traveling in the same direc-
Tion—toward the beach—there
Must have been a million cars
Pass while I have been here—sud-Denly I change my position to

A road leading out of the oppo-
Site side of the city and I
Find that here the former exper-
Ience is repeated—the ever-
Coming—ever-going string of auto-
Mobiles resembles a long par-

Ade—the roads are black with
Machines—all my friends are
Out today—I marvel at the sight
Of course the day is ideal for
Motoring—it is one of those early
Spring days when the country-

Side is especially alluring—the Grass is covering the hills and
Valleys with a blanket of green
The chippy birds are singing their
Newest spring song and the rest-
Less little brooklet is rip-

Pling out its tune which is Always the sweetest of music
To the ear—but what has this
To do with this remarkable
Increase in motor travel—per-
Plexed I start homeward but

After walking a block or two
My mind is set at ease—I
Learn the reason for all this
Spring day rambling—the news
Comes to me in the form of a
Sign which reads—"Gasoline

12 cents per gallon"—I no longer
Wonder at the newly-arrived
Motoring fad—gas at 12 cents
Per answers the question
The bee flies my way—alights
Leaves its stinger and straight

Way I hurry home—crank the tail
Of my own little blizzard
And join the restless procession

The Reality

"Uxtree! Uxtree!—Price of gas-
Oline jumps to 40 cents a
Gallon—Uxtree"

MR. KIRK GIVES REASONS

As a member of the "Greater Glendale Campaign Committee" which is promoting the candidacy of J. S. Thompson and Hartley Shaw for Trustees, Mr. Stauffacher for Treasurer and Mr. Sherer for Clerk, I am pleased to present my reasons for taking a part in this movement.

First, let me say that I have no political ax to grind, of any kind or character. The only time in my life when I made any effort for an office of any kind was in the fall of 1916, when an independent postmaster for Glendale was expected to be named, but did not materialize. As Uncle Remus says, "I done had my dose" of candidacy and, as I look at it now, will never accept an office of any kind on a platter.

For the ten years I have lived here, I have always believed in our City Government, and have never hesitated to say that I think we have had the best governed little city, since our incorporation, there is in California, or any other state, for that matter. Our officers have always been loyal, patriotic, honest men, of good ability, who have given of their best efforts to do their full duty as officials. Never has a word of graft or double-dealing been charged against any one of them, so far as I have known. To say that there have not been mistakes made, would not be stating the truth, but who has not made them? There is an old saying that a person "who makes no mistakes never makes anything." Isn't it so?

Among the ablest and best men who have served us in the capacity of trustee is Jos. S. Thompson, present chairman of the Board, and de facto Mayor of the city. In the discharge of his duties as trustee for the past six years Mr. Thompson has grown each year in the estimate of all who have watched his record. He is so faithful in the discharge of his duty that he has attended 593 meetings of the Board and has not been absent from more than six meetings in all these years. This is a remarkable record. His decisions in complicated cases have shown him to be possessed of splendid judgment, and his stand in the matter of the enforcement of the laws and in keeping the city the clean, moral town it has always had the reputation of being, has always proven to be four-square. Mr. Thompson is a splendid business man, having the very responsible position of manager of the Arden Building Material Co., one of the largest in its line in Los Angeles.

It is only fair to the gateway end of our city (formerly Tropico) that it should have a representative on the Board, to look after its interest in a special way, and a large number of its best-known citizens, men and women, who struggled for years to bring about the consolidation of the two cities, have prevailed on Hartley Shaw to assume the candidacy for Trustee from that section. Mr. Shaw has been well known to some of us in Glendale for several years, but his innate modesty and love of home and family have prevented his being as well known as he might be, otherwise. Mr. Shaw is the only child of Judge Lucien Shaw, Justice of the Supreme Court of California, and a man well beloved by all who know him. Hartley Shaw is a good lawyer, and is known not so much for his brilliance in oratory as for his soundness of judgment and thoroughness in forming his opinions. He was the last city attorney for Tropico and one of the strongest advocates for the uniting of the two towns. Mr. Shaw can have no reason for desiring to assume the burdens and criticisms of the office of trustee except to serve his fellow townsmen and because he has been solicited and urged by them to do so. Take it from me, he will make a splendid official.

Mr. Sherer is one of the oldest and best-known residents of the Valley, and was founder and publisher of the Glendale News until it was bought by Mr. Cowan. All who know Mr. Sherer recognize his sturdy, lofty character—a man who never fails to speak out when he feels the occasion demands. As clerk, Mr. Sherer will continue to be more valuable because of the knowledge he has gained from his past experience.

Mr. Stauffacher, as deputy under Mr. Hoffman, was appointed to the position of Treasurer by the Trustees at Mr. Hoffman's death. The very fact that his conduct of the office is highly satisfactory to the Trustees, is sufficient evidence that he is the man for the job and that we should make no change.

If we can secure men such as these to serve us, what more is to be desired? Let us elect them on April 8th. No doubt there are other good men running for some of these offices, but these are some of my reasons for supporting the above.

W. B. KIRK.

THE C. E. CONVENTION

Glendale Christian Endeavor members who attended the three-day convention at Santa Monica report a big and enthusiastsic meeting which was enjoyed by many delegates, probably not less than one hundred, from this city. Mrs. Yarrick and Mrs. Frazee chaperoned a party from the Congregational Church, Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. King were chaperones for a house party of boys and girls of the Intermediate Department of the Presbyterian Church Sunday School, and a good many pupils from the Sunday Schools of the Christian Church and the Tropico Presbyterian Church were there. The two addresses of outstanding interest were made by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian Church, and by Dr. Alexander Saunders, an aged missionary who has spent sixty years in the Inland China field and who is here with his wife on a furlough. "Soldiers of the Cross" and Christian work in camp and on battle front, was the keynote of the convention. Mr. Edmond's topic was: "The Equipment of a Soldier of Christ," and it was a very strong presentation of a vital theme. It was delivered Sunday afternoon before a large audience. Dr. Saunders' title was: "Soldiers of the Cross in the Trenches." It is a subject which came very near to him because his own son was in one of the great battles in the first of the war, two and a half years ago, and has not been heard from since. Whether he is dead or in some German prison camp the doctor and his wife have no means of knowing. The doctor is still vigorous physically, but is almost blind.

GOD'S SMILEAGE TICKETS

There was a good attendance at the First Baptist church of this city yesterday morning when Rev. Vernon C. Cowsert, pastor, delivered a very helpful discourse from the subject, "God's Smileage Tickets." The text for the morning was taken from the 22d verse of the fifth chapter of Galatians: "But the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith."

Some of the "high lights" of Rev. Cowsert's sermon were as follows:

"The text reveals the fact that God has smileage tickets to give to men.

"God spells pleasure with three letters—j-o-y. The devil also spells it with three letters—f-u-n. Fun depends on circumstances; joy is not dependent upon circumstances.

"Never did this old world need to be provided with God's smileage tickets as it does right at this time. We are living in a period when too much cannot be said about the joy that the world can not give and that the world can not take away.

"There are three distinct divisions to the joy contained in our text: 1, one's individual salvation; 2, the work of saving others; 3, the joy that abides midst persecution.

"The further away from God men go, the less happiness they have. True joy is only to be found in God. It is the result of the love of Christ in the heart.

"If you are a stranger to Christ there is only before you darkness and gloom, and it will always be so until you recognize God's hand in life and accept him as your personal savior.

"If God came back today to view your record, would you have one soul to offer to him? Would you go to the Saviour empty handed?

"The greatest slam one can give to Christianity is to neglect to smile. A person can not truthfully advertise the Gospel of Christ by going down the street with a face that resembles a funeral procession. Tears in the voice will not suffice—you must have a light heart and a smiling face.

"One reason why people do not have joy is that they read everything but the Word of God.

"The average Christian is so nearly a part of the world these days that it is hard and sometimes impossible to tell where Christianity begins and the world leaves off.

"We should thank God if we have the privilege of being presecuted for Him.

"God has given to us the privilege of testing the joy and powers of the future age."

ALL-AMERICAN CANAL TO BE SURVEYED

The all-American canal, to irrigate about 300,000 acres of land in Imperial Valley just above the canals of the Imperial Irrigation District, is soon to be surveyed. The University of California College of Agriculture announces that a contract has been entered into between the United States Department of the Interior and the Imperial District of California for an investigation and survey of the project.

Recognizing that it vitally affects the progress of the whole state, the Department of the Interior has dealt with the plan as a public matter, in which the Steate of California has an interest, and the contract provides that the plans for this investigation and the general supervision of the survey shall be under the direction of a board made up of a representative of the U. S. Reclamation Service, of the Imperial Irrigation District, and of the State of California. W. W. Schlecht, the Engineer of the Yuma project, has been designated as the representative of the Reclamation Service, and Elwood Mead, Professor of Rural Institutions in the University of California, as the representative of the State of Carifornia. The board will meet in Yuma in March and work will begin soon after.

To build the canal will require much difficult and costly construction, and an expenditure roughly estimated at $10,000,000, but it would more than double the agricultural products of that section, and would provide homes for fully 30,000 people. Being all-American, the canal would be free from Mexican complications, it is thought.

The inauguration of this work is the outcome of an investigation and report made last year by a board composed of representatives of the Reclamation Service and the University of California, Professor Elwood Mead being chairman.

AN ELEVATED GOLD MINE

That a 12-acre orange grove in Duarte, of full-bearing seedlings, will bring its owner approximately $25,000 this year is the estimate of the crop given by a local citrus fruit packer. Many of the trees will yield a cash return of from $40 to $50, says the orange dealer, and more than one acre plot on the ranch will bring a return of $4000, he declares. His estimates are based upon a figure of $2 a loose box for the fruit.

Seedling groves come into their own this year because every kind of orange is bringing a good price and the seedling trees, most of which are full grown, are heavy bearers.

Grape fruit, it is said, is the only citrus product that is not selling briskly. Shortage of sugar in the east, where grape fruit is largely marketed, is declared to be the reason for its low price.

UNDER THE CAMOUFLAGE

By Lowell Mellett
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 6. (By Mail.)—Had a bit of the future unroiled for me today.

A tall, thin Londoner who sometimes does these things for his friends, took my hand, closed his eyes and went into semi-trance, out of which he spoke as follows:

"I see an ancient house in a French town, with troops all about it. I see a room in which are gathered German officers. They are busy and excited in a subdued way, seemingly awed by the presence of one who sits at the center table, though he seems in high spirits and careless of the deference the others pay him. He slaps his right hand in a jovial manner across the thick shoulders of a General bending above the table at his side. His left hand hangs at his side in a useless sort of way. By that and by the upturned gray mustaches I recognize the Kaiser. The scowling countenance of the thick-shouldered General is Hindenburg's.

"Minor officers continually enter bringing messages. The excitement grows. Ever and anon the Kaiser slaps the thick shoulders. Hindenburg doesn't seem to care much for it and doesn't respond to his nominal Master's emotion. He is giving serious study to the reports laid before him. Suddenly the Kaiser calls to him a little old spectacled man in uniform. The little man produces a stenographer's notebook as he comes. To him the Kaiser dictates, gesturing as he speaks the words:

"'Vorwart mit Gott! My brave troops, incomparably led by my Generals, once again have driven back the enemies seeking to crush the Fatherland—'

"It is the great offensive. The Germans are winning.

"I hear church bells and I see city streets. They are the streets of Berlin. From windows flags are being flung out and crowds in the street are laughing and shouting. Newsboys pour out of the alleys with bundles of extras under their arms and crying, 'Great Victory on the West Front!'

"In the papers you can read positive assertions by Capt. Persius and Count von Reventlow and other military critics that the long-predicted great events on the West Front are under way. Soon now the Allies must give the German people the peace for which Germany went to war.

"I see men and women, old and young, eagerly and yet fearfully seizing the papers. They turn over the scant pages quickly, but that for which they are looking is not there. The casualties have not been published!"

The amateur seer shook himself and opened his eyes.

"Finish the picture," I urged him.

"Finish it for yourself," he replied. "What do you think you will happen in Germany when the people learn the cost of this offensive, figured in the lives of their men and boys? Especially when the most 'My Generals' can show for it is a little dent somewhere or other in the Allies lines and peace no nearer?"

There being a war on, I went last night to hear a lecture on Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. The lecturer was William Henry Hudson, former professor of English Literature at Stanford, who may be remembered in California as one of those who quit Stanford at the time of the rumpus over Prof. Ross. He is now a member of the University of London faculty and the lecture was one of the university's extension course. It was given in the Free Library of Fulham, which isn't far from Chelsea.

Among the students in the audience was a soldier who looked to be not less than fifty years old. He was a grizzled, sturdy citizen in cavalry boots and would have seemed more at home bossing a section gang. But he followed Prof. Hudson closely, making constant laborious notes in a tiny note book as the professor discussed "Hiawatha," "Evangeline," "The Courtship of Miles Standish," etc. I should have liked to see his notes on "Hiawatha."

Altogether it was a soothing evening. It is a long cry from this war-worried city to:

"This is the forest primeval.

"The murmuring pine and the hemlock—"

FARM BUREAU PLANS BIG YEAR'S WORK

The Board of Directors of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, at their recent meeting, outlined the work proposed for the coming year. Recent rains have injected a spirit of enthusiasm and great things are expected of the organization this year. Dr. Coit, Farm Advisor, just returned from the Farm Bureau conference at Berkeley, presented several projects of great importance which had previously been considered by the representatives of thirty-five County Farm Bureaus of California.

O. W. Maulsby of Whittier and J. B. Vail of San Dimas were appoint, delegates from Los Angeles County to attend the conference.

Seal Beach, with several of the nearby cities, has been without gas a part of the time for a week. Monday those who use gas for both heat and cooking, were decidedly up against it.

Cause of the trouble is said to be breaks in the main lines between Long Beach and Wilmington. The storm is the responsible party.

PRAYER AND BLESSING

In speaking on the subject "Prayer and Blessing" at the Occult Science of Christ Church, Glendale, Rev. A. William Goetz said in part:

Text, Prov. 4:7: "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding." Prov. 10:22: "The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and He addeth no sorrow with it."

Wisdom is the principal thing for us to possess, but if we have not the understanding of the practical application in our own lives of all this wisdom we have as naught. Let us then find the practical understanding of the use of prayer in our daily lives. Prayer is really synonymous to praise, so in praise for all our previous blessings or gifts received, we raise our receptivity of vibration to the vibration of the abundance of all things and while in this state we receive the countless gifts we are asking for. If we are praying with an understanding heart we are asking for what we know exists and we are asking for what we know can be given to us without injuring another soul. The keynote of prayer is to give thanks for whatever is being received even if at the time one can not see the good in the condition one has, for if we had the understanding of all of life's progress and especially our own we would most likely be more thankful for the opportunity to learn that particular lesson. Life itself is a blessing and when we realize our oneness with God we come to a full understanding that the blessing of the Lord maketh us rich. The richness of the mind that is in tune with the Infinite so as to understand God's ways of leading him or her to the peace that passeth understanding is entirely beyond the powers of reasoning, for it comes from within. If you will notice that nearly all of the Psalms in the Bible start with praise and thanksgiving. Then the writer of the Psalms, understanding that he has received all he is thankful for, makes his plea for whatever he desires, not as a question implying a doubt but as a firm statement of what he knows God will do for him. Then he tells the reasons for the power of the Lord to give him this particular blessing and gives immediate thanks that his prayer has been answered. Let us then take this lesson to ourselves and live in a continuous attitude of prayer and thanksgiving, realizing that as we give thanks for what we expect to receive we open the vibrations of receptivity to the blessing and we can say with the Hindu seer, "Serene I stand in God's eternal ways and know my blessing will know my face." When we understand the fullness of the blessing of the Lord we know that in that blessing there is no sorrow with it, but in the fullness of the blessing we reach the Divine Consciousness that all is well and that we are a part of the great All. Let us then give thanks that God is guiding us to our Eternal Home and that where God is there is no sorrow.

TO IMPROVE VICTORY BREADS

Under direction of the National Association of Master Bakers, formulas for the use of various kinds of cereals as substitutes for wheat flour in the making of victory bread are to be worked out by experts, and then practical demonstrations in the best methods of baking victory bread will be given in every county in the United States.

In short, the technical service committee proposes to place the experience of the ablest bakers of the country at the service of every member of the trade in order that he may both help himself and the Food Administration by producing a victory bread that will satisfy the most exacting taste.

DISOBEDIENCE OF CHILDREN

That the prevalent disobedience of children to their parents is a sign that the last days of earth's history have come and that this situation calls for radical reformation on the part of both parents and children, was the assertion of Pastor B. E. Beddoe, in his discourse at the Glendale Seventh-day Adventist church, Third and Isabel streets, last Saturday morning. Mr. Beddoe said that the serious responsibility of properly training their children rests upon parents in a much larger degree than many fathers and mothers realize, and that the great need is for parents to come closer to their children.

"In many instances parents and children live in two hemispheres," he said. "If these parents do enter the world of the child, it is only for an instant. There is, as it were, but a flash of companionship between them; then each is back again in his own realm. Parents should live with their children. Home should be to the children the most lovely place in the world, because papa and mamma are there.

"It is very unfortunate that there is not a closer tie between parents and children nowadays. Some parents tell me, 'I will not whip Johhny, or Charley or Mary because I do not want to drive them from me.' But, dear friends, the rod used in God's way will draw the children closer to you. I make the statement on the strength of the testimony of God's Word. We read in Proverbs 29:15, 'The rod and reproof give wisdom; but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame.' 'Correct thy son, and he shall give thee rest; yea, he shall give delight unto thy soul.' There is a proper way to punish a child, and there are times when it is the best thing a man can do for his children to chastise them.

"You may plant a tree, and if you want it to grow straight, in spite of winds and storms, you will drive stakes about it. If the tender twig becomes bent, you will tie it straight and gently pull out the crooked place. Children are very much like the little, growing tree.

"I hope none will feel that I am setting up unreasonably high standards. I recognize that there are instances, even in Bible times, where children went wrong in various ways, and so far as we can tell their parents were ideal. Yet we must not lose sight of our responsibility as parents. Some day God will hold parents responsible for their boys and girls, and he will hold the children responsible for the way they have treated their parents. Disobedience to parents is no light matter. It is an awful thing. Some day, as the books of God disclose the record of deeds on earth, we shall see what it all means.

"This is one of the prevailing sins of the last days, and a sign of the end. We read in Second Timothy 3:1-5, 'This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof.'

"This is a list of terrible sins," continued the speaker, "and yet so descriptive of the outstanding characteristics of this generation that we can not mistake it. These very conditions exist today. Ask the aged, gray-headed grandfathers and grandmothers what the conditions were in their early years, and they will tell you they never witnessed in their youth the disobedience of children toward their parents that is seen today. It is today a common thing for a child stubbornly to refuse to obey its parents. This often goes without reproof, the parents failing to have a keen sense of their responsibility.

"Parents, let me warn you that a storm is coming, relentless in its fury. When that storm bursts upon the world, when all the forces of evil are turned loose, we want to be sure our children are under the shelter of God's protection. We want to be sure we have discharged our full responsibility in training them as God would have us."

LA CRESCENTA

The Tehua Camp Fire Girls have made a servic flag for the boys who have gone from homes in this community, and placed it at the post office. It has 14 stars at present.

H. S. Bissell reports that up to date the rainfall has been 24.43 inches. The storms of the past few days had a total of 8.93 inches. Tuesday's reading of the guage showed 4.37. And some folks said it would be a dry year. Get your garden in now and save irrigation later.

The French Relief Society gratefully acknowledges donations of infants' garments made by the La Crescenta women. These garments were started immediately for France, as a shipment was being packed at the time our donation arrived.

John Wesley Leenhouts, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is up and around again. Hopes to get back to school very soon now.

The Red Cross needs pieces of clean old wool or wool and cotton blankets 12x12 or larger. Bring them to our Red Cross work room Tuesdays or Thursdays.

A Red Cross Tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Anderson in Montrose on April 3 at 2 p. m. Every one is invited and the silver offering will be for the Wool Fund.

Mrs. Pierre Escalle is rejoicing over a brand new granddaughter. Both mother and baby are doing fine.

The La Crescenta Women's Club met Wednesday at the schoolhouse and spent a delightful afternoon. It was decided to buy a Smileage Book for every one of the boys on our Roll of Honor and send them as a gift from the club to our boys at their various cantonments. Mrs. Reynolds made a strong plea also for members to join the Red Star Society. Splendid papers were read by Mrs. Leon Behand and Mrs. S. S. Thomas on France, Its Geography and History. The next meeting will be April 10 at the home of Mrs. Goddard in La Canada.

On Thursday, March 21, the Farm Bureau will meet at La Canada schoolhouse. Dr. Eliot Coit and his assistants will spend the afternoon looking over this territory and in the evening will lecture on "The Best Crops Suited for Our Valleys." At 6:30 a supper will be served free by the combined La Crescenta Women's Club and La Canada Women's Club. Everyone interested is invited to be present to get good advice, have a good time, get acquainted with our Farm Adviser and his assistants and with one another. Come prepared to ask questions and take notes.

The Women's Club will give a vaudeville and dance on April 20. Details will be announced later.
